WORK SAMPLE PORTFOLIOS

These work sample portfolios have been designed to illustrate satisfactory achievement in the relevant aspects of the achievement standard.

The December 2011 work sample portfolios are a resource to support planning and implementation of the Foundation to Year 10 Australian Curriculum in English, Mathematics, Science and History during 2012. They comprise collections of different students' work annotated to highlight evidence of student learning of different aspects of the achievement standard.

The work samples vary in terms of how much time was available to complete the task or the degree of scaffolding provided by the teacher.

There is no pre-determined number of samples required in a portfolio nor are the work samples sequenced in any particular order. These initial work sample portfolios do not constitute a complete set of work samples - they provide evidence of most (but not necessarily all) aspects of the achievement standard.

As the Australian Curriculum in English, Mathematics, Science and History is implemented by schools in 2012, the work sample portfolios will be reviewed and enhanced by drawing on classroom practice and will reflect a more systematic collection of evidence from teaching and learning programs.

THIS PORTFOLIO – YEAR 3 ENGLISH

This portfolio comprises a number of work samples drawn from a range of assessment tasks, namely:

- Sample 1 Response to visual text – Windows
- Sample 2 Response to literature – Refugee
- Sample 3 Reading strategy – Making connections
- Sample 4 Persuasive letter – Come home
- Sample 5 Information text – Volcanoes

This portfolio of student work shows that this student understands that texts have different structures depending on their purpose. (WS1, WS2, WS4, WS5) The student uses this knowledge to read different types of texts and can explain how to utilise reading strategies to enhance comprehension (WS1, WS3, WS4) and to write informative and persuasive texts (WS4). The student has selected information from informative, visual and literary texts (WS1, WS2, WS5) and understands how to create cohesive texts to engage and inform (WS1, WS4, WS5).

The following aspects of the achievement standard are not evident in this portfolio:

- listen to others’ views and respond appropriately
- contribute actively to class and group discussions, asking questions, providing useful feedback and making presentations
- write using joined letters that are clearly formed and consistent in size.
Work sample 1:
Response to visual text – Windows

Relevant parts of the achievement standard

Receptive modes (listening, reading and viewing)

By the end of Year 3, students understand how content can be organised using different text structures depending on the purpose of the text. They understand how language features, images and vocabulary choices are used for different effects.

They read texts that contain varied sentence structures, a range of punctuation conventions, and images that provide additional information. They identify literal and implied meaning connecting ideas in different parts of a text. They select information, ideas and events in texts that relate to their own lives and to other texts. They listen to others’ views and respond appropriately.

Productive modes (speaking, writing and creating)

Students understand how language features are used to link and sequence ideas. They understand how language can be used to express feelings and opinions on topics. Their texts include writing and images to express and develop in some detail experiences, events, information, ideas and characters.

Students create a range of texts for familiar and unfamiliar audiences. They contribute actively to class and group discussions, asking questions, providing useful feedback and making presentations. They demonstrate understanding of grammar and choose vocabulary and punctuation appropriate to the purpose and context of their writing. They use knowledge of sounds and high frequency words to spell words accurately, checking their work for meaning. They write using joined letters that are clearly formed and consistent in size.

Summary of task

Students had been reading the wordless picture book Windows by Jeannie Baker in small groups with each member having a specific reading responsibility, for example one role was ‘message breaker’ and another ‘feeling seeker’.

Students were asked to create a summary of a personal response to the text. This task required the students to interpret the images to construct the events. They were asked to use the reading roles to organise their writing. They were also asked to use the roles as headings.
Work sample 1:
Response to visual text – Windows

Annotations

Uses comprehension strategies to build literal meaning and make inferences, and connect ideas from different parts of a text, for example understands that the images represent a sequence.

Uses developing evaluative vocabulary to express a point of view, for example ‘shocked’, ‘environment’, ‘destroyed’.

Uses images and writing to express ideas and opinions.

Uses complex sentences to link ideas in writing, for example ‘I felt shocked when the environment was just like a city’.

Uses a range of doing, thinking, saying and relating verbs.

Uses verb tense appropriate for this type of text.

Spells high frequency words accurately, for example ‘about’, ‘city’, ‘have’, and attempts new words using knowledge of sounds, for example ‘destroyed’ (destroyed).

Annotations (Overview)

This work sample demonstrates that the student understands how to organise and present information in an effective way. It also demonstrates an understanding of how visual components such as illustrations, headings and experimentation with punctuation add to the message of the text.
Work sample 2: Response to literature – Refugee

Relevant parts of the achievement standard

Receptive modes (listening, reading and viewing)

By the end of Year 3, students understand how content can be organised using different text structures depending on the purpose of the text. They understand how language features, images and vocabulary choices are used for different effects.

They read texts that contain varied sentence structures, a range of punctuation conventions, and images that provide additional information. They identify literal and implied meaning connecting ideas in different parts of a text. They select information, ideas and events in texts that relate to their own lives and to other texts. They listen to others’ views and respond appropriately.

Productive modes (speaking, writing and creating)

Students understand how language features are used to link and sequence ideas. They understand how language can be used to express feelings and opinions on topics. Their texts include writing and images to express and develop in some detail experiences, events, information, ideas and characters.

Students create a range of texts for familiar and unfamiliar audiences. They contribute actively to class and group discussions, asking questions, providing useful feedback and making presentations. They demonstrate understanding of grammar and choose vocabulary and punctuation appropriate to the purpose and context of their writing. They use knowledge of sounds and high frequency words to spell words accurately, checking their work for meaning. They write using joined letters that are clearly formed and consistent in size.

Summary of task

Students were asked to independently read Refugee by David Miller and respond to questions. These questions required the student to use comprehension strategies to identify literal information and make inferences from the text.

They were required to:

- make a prediction about the text prior to reading
- provide a brief recount of the events in the text
- identify personal connections with the text
- make judgments about the intended audience and message of the text.
Work sample 2: Response to literature – Refugee

Annotations

makes predictions about the text using illustrations on the cover and the title.

identifies literal information in the text including the characters involved and the sequence of key events.

Links key ideas in the text to personal experience.

Uses known and learned vocabulary, including technical vocabulary, for example ‘foreign’, ‘environment’.

Identifies the audience, purpose and the author’s underlying message of the text.

Uses appropriate punctuation including capital letters and full stops.

Uses knowledge of sounds and high frequency words to spell accurately, for example ‘who’, ‘people’, ‘animals’.

Annotations (Overview)

This work sample provides evidence of a student’s response to an imaginative text with a strong underlying theme. It shows how the student, prompted by the teacher’s questions, has been able to identify the embedded ideas and the author’s message in the text and to relate this message to personal experience and to a wider context. The sample demonstrates understanding of how complex sentences work to connect ideas.

Acknowledgment

ACARA acknowledges the contribution of the trial school teachers and students for providing the tasks and work samples. The annotations are referenced to the Australian Curriculum achievement standards.
Work sample 3: Reading strategy – Making connections

Relevant parts of the achievement standard

Receptive modes (listening, reading and viewing)

By the end of Year 3, students understand how content can be organised using different text structures depending on the purpose of the text. They understand how language features, images and vocabulary choices are used for different effects.

They read texts that contain varied sentence structures, a range of punctuation conventions, and images that provide additional information. They identify literal and implied meaning connecting ideas in different parts of a text. They select information, ideas and events in texts that relate to their own lives and to other texts. They listen to others’ views and respond appropriately.

Productive modes (speaking, writing and creating)

Students understand how language features are used to link and sequence ideas. They understand how language can be used to express feelings and opinions on topics. Their texts include writing and images to express and develop in some detail experiences, events, information, ideas and characters.

Students create a range of texts for familiar and unfamiliar audiences. They contribute actively to class and group discussions, asking questions, providing useful feedback and making presentations. They demonstrate understanding of grammar and choose vocabulary and punctuation appropriate to the purpose and context of their writing. They use knowledge of sounds and high frequency words to spell words accurately, checking their work for meaning. They write using joined letters that are clearly formed and consistent in size.

Summary of task

The students participated in a filmed interview about how to use a specific reading strategy to read and understand texts. The strategy involved students in small groups, adopting different roles during a shared reading lesson. The texts that they had been reading were the visual texts Belonging and Windows by Jeannie Baker. The student in the video interview is taking on the role of ‘the connector’. In the interview students were asked to:

- explain the reading strategy
- use vocabulary that had been used in class in preparation for the interview
- rehearse their response to the questions with peers.
Work sample 3:
Reading strategy – Making connections

Acknowledgment
ACARA acknowledges the contribution of the Department of Education and Child Development, South Australia for providing the tasks and work samples. The annotations are referenced to the Australian Curriculum achievement standards.
Work sample 4: Persuasive letter – Come home

Relevant parts of the achievement standard

Receptive modes (listening, reading and viewing)

By the end of Year 3, students understand how content can be organised using different text structures depending on the purpose of the text. They understand how language features, images and vocabulary choices are used for different effects.

They read texts that contain varied sentence structures, a range of punctuation conventions, and images that provide additional information. They identify literal and implied meaning connecting ideas in different parts of a text. They select information, ideas and events in texts that relate to their own lives and to other texts. They listen to others’ views and respond appropriately.

Productive modes (speaking, writing and creating)

Students understand how language features are used to link and sequence ideas. They understand how language can be used to express feelings and opinions on topics. Their texts include writing and images to express and develop in some detail experiences, events, information, ideas and characters.

Students create a range of texts for familiar and unfamiliar audiences. They contribute actively to class and group discussions, asking questions, providing useful feedback and making presentations. They demonstrate understanding of grammar and choose vocabulary and punctuation appropriate to the purpose and context of their writing. They use knowledge of sounds and high frequency words to spell words accurately, checking their work for meaning. They write using joined letters that are clearly formed and consistent in size.

Summary of task

Students were asked to write a persuasive letter based on a literary text. Students had participated in whole class reading of the text and later they read the text again independently. The letter was to be an exchange between characters in the text and reflect events from the text. The teacher and students brainstormed ideas that students could select from and use as a basis for their writing. Students were asked to use appropriate letter writing conventions.
Work sample 4: Persuasive letter – Come home

8th June 2011

Dear Wendy,

I am writing to tell you that you must come back.

You must come back because you are missing the pig’s baby. It names is pinky the pig.

Wendy, you must come back because there is going to be a big chicken race. On Saturday you must come back. Other wise you will miss it.

A horse become a pop star but if you don’t come back she will lose it. You must come back Wendy.

From your friend Squacky the Rabbit

PS. YOU! MUST! COME! BACK!!!
Work sample 5:
Information text - Volcanoes

Relevant parts of the achievement standard

Receptive modes (listening, reading and viewing)

By the end of Year 3, students understand how content can be organised using different text structures depending on the purpose of the text. They understand how language features, images and vocabulary choices are used for different effects.

They read texts that contain varied sentence structures, a range of punctuation conventions, and images that provide additional information. They identify literal and implied meaning connecting ideas in different parts of a text. They select information, ideas and events in texts that relate to their own lives and to other texts. They listen to others’ views and respond appropriately.

Productive modes (speaking, writing and creating)

Students understand how language features are used to link and sequence ideas. They understand how language can be used to express feelings and opinions on topics. Their texts include writing and images to express and develop in some detail experiences, events, information, ideas and characters.

Students create a range of texts for familiar and unfamiliar audiences. They contribute actively to class and group discussions, asking questions, providing useful feedback and making presentations. They demonstrate understanding of grammar and choose vocabulary and punctuation appropriate to the purpose and context of their writing. They use knowledge of sounds and high frequency words to spell words accurately, checking their work for meaning. They write using joined letters that are clearly formed and consistent in size.

Summary of task

Students were asked to read a variety of factual texts on volcanoes. From this reading they were asked to take short notes and use this information to present information in a poster about volcanoes. They were further asked to:

- group the similar information together
- write in sentences
- collect or draw relevant illustrations or pictures
- write the text on a computer.
Work sample 5: Information text - Volcanoes

Annotations

Selects visual features including colour and placement of images for effect on an audience.

Maintains a focus on topic throughout the text.

Uses sound–letter relationships to spell technical words, for example ‘spurts’ and knowledge of spelling rules, for example ‘breathing’ to spell words.

Uses a range of language features including different verbs, for example ‘erupts’, ‘spurts out’ and maintains appropriate tense.

Uses technical vocabulary appropriate for this topic, for example ‘lava’, ‘eruptions’.

Combines clauses into complex sentences to express and link ideas, for example ‘When a volcano erupts it spurts out clouds of fire. It can go in your lungs and make you stop breathing’.

Provides some opinion, for example ‘Volcanoes are very important’.

Annotations (Overview)

This work sample demonstrates the construction of an informative text presented on a poster. It combines print and visual elements to construct a multimodal text that uses discrete pieces of information not intended to be read as a continuous text. It shows evidence of planning and publishing skills required for an informative poster such as the organisation and presentation of the text and visual layout.

Acknowledgment

ACARA acknowledges the contribution of the Education and Training Directorate, ACT for providing the tasks and work samples. The annotations are referenced to the Australian Curriculum achievement standards.